Lord, who shall be admitted to your tent and dwell on your holy mountain? He who walks without fault; he who acts with justice and speaks the truth from his heart; he who does not slander with his tongue; He who does no wrong to his brother, who casts no slur on his neighbor, who holds the godless in disdain, but honors those who fear the Lord; he who keeps his pledge, come what may; who takes no interest on a loan and accepts no bribes against the innocent. Such a man will stand firm forever.

Reader: Glory to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit

Ode 5

Irmos

Tone 2

Driv-ing a - - - way the dark - ness of my soul

by the light of your di-vine com - mand - ments; en - light-en me,

O God and Sav - ior, for you on - ly are the King of Peace.

Refrain

Glo - ry to your ho - ly Res - ur - rec - tion, O Lord.

Stripping me of the ancient garment that had been woven for me by the power of iniquity, you have clothed me, O Lord, in the garment of immortality. Refrain

Alas, my sin has sewn me a garment of fig leaves; for I have followed the advice of the Serpent and not kept your commandment, O Savior. Refrain

My soul has been wounded by sin and injured by the robbers of thought. But Christ has come through Mary, and he will heal me by pouring on the ointment of his mercy. Refrain

Standing near the Cross of the Redeemer, the all-pure Theotokos cried out maternally and sighed: You now leave me all alone, O my Son and my God! Refrain

With the weapon of the Cross, you have destroyed the Serpent, that prince of evildoers; and by your Resurrection, O Lord, you have broken the sting of death. Refrain

O Death, where is your sting? Where is the victory of Hades? Rejoice, Adam, for Death is abolished by the life of him who is risen from the dead. Refrain

The myrrh-bearing women came to the tomb of him who carried life even to Hades, and they heard the good news of the Resurrection of Christ. Refrain

Celebrating today the memory of the holy myrrh-bearing women and of all your disciples O Lord, we praise you in your radiant Resurrection Refrain

All the faithful, let us praise, as is fitting, the noble Joseph of Arimathea who took the body of Christ down from the Cross and piously gave him a respectful burial.

Glo - ry to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Ho - ly Spir - it.

I worship you in three persons, O my God; I bow before the Father, the Son, and the most Holy Spirit, confessing the unity of the three persons.

Now and ev - er and for - ev - er. A - men.

We the faithful honor you with our hymns, for you surpassed nature in giving birth without seed to Christ, our only Lord who has himself renewed my corrupted nature.

Katavasia

Tone 1 samopodoben

Let us rise at ear - ly dawn and bring to our Mas - ter a hymn in - stead of myrrh, and we shall see Christ, the Sun of right-cous-ness, who en-light-ens

the life of all.

Ode 6

Irmos

Tone 2

I am held fast, O Sav - ior, in the depths of sin and o - ver-whelmed by the sea of life: but, as you have brought out Jo - nah from the bel - ly of the whale, bring me out from the pas - sions and save me.

Refrain

Glo - ry to your ho - ly Res - ur - rec - tion, O Lord.

Take courage! Hades is put to death, for by his death on the Cross Christ has turned the sword against it. It is now deprived of its spoils and has lost all the dead which it had seized. Refrain

Hades is despoiled! Take courage, O people! The tombs are opened. Awaken! Christ calls you forth from Hades; he has come to redeem the human race from the grave and death. Refrain

The Source of life said to Hades: I have now come to reclaim the dead which you had formerly swallowed up. For he is God who has come to redeem the human race from the grave and death. Refrain

Christ is rise, destroying our Enemy; breaking the bonds, he has delivered the human race. In his tenderness he has raised up adam, our first father, by extending his hand as the God of goodness. Refrain

Having wrapped you in a shroud, O christ, the noble Joseph placed you in a tomb. With precious ointments he anointed the destroyed temple of your most pure body, and then he rolled a stone over the entrance to the tomb. Refrain

Why do you hasten, O myrrh-bearers? Why are you carrying myrrh to the living God? Christ is risen as he said. Wipe away your tears and from now on change your tears into joy.

O faithful, let us praise the unique Trinity; let us glorify the Father and the Son, together with the Spirit who is consubstantial with the Father and dwells with him from the beginning, divinity sharing the same eternity.

Without sowing nor laboring, O Virgin, as a true vine you have conceived the Grape of Immortality whose juice flows forth for us as a fount of eternal joy.

Tone 2

By your res-ur-rec - tion, O Christ our God, you told the myrrh - bear-ers to re-joice;

and you stilled the weeping of Eve, the first moth - er. You com-mand-ed your a - pos - tles to pro-claim: The Sav - ior is ris - en from the tomb.

Ikos: Coming near to your tomb, O Savior, the myrrh-bearers hesitated, saying to each other: Who will roll the stone away from the tomb for us? They looked and saw that it had been rolled away. Startled by the sight of the radiant angel, they were seized with fear and wanted to flee, but the young man cried out to them: Do not be afraid! The One whom you seek is risen; come and see the place where the body of Jesus lay. Hasten to his disciples and proclaim to them:

The Sav - ior is ris - en from the tomb.

Ode 7

Irmos

Tone 2

As the cher - u - bim in heav - - - en, the Chil - dren sang to - geth-er in the fur - nace: Bless-ed are you, O God, for in truth and judg-ment have you brought all these

Wishing to save the work of your hands from wandering astray, O God of goodness, you endured being nailed to a cross to restore in your flesh, O Savior, the image that was broken by our passions. Destroying Hades, you raised up the dead with you. Refrain

Raised upon the Cross, O God of tenderness, you called all people back to you according to your promise. In truth, O Lord, you deigned to suffer death for our sins; even to the Thief you opened the gates of Paradise, O Savior. Refrain

You raised the destroyed temple of your body from the grave on the third day according to your promise, so that you might truly manifest the glory that you share with us in faith; you freed the prisoners which Hades formerly held captive. Refrain

What do the stricken guards now say? How was he stolen whom they were not able to guard? If they did not see him raised up, how can they say that his body was stolen? The empty tomb together with the shroud and wrappings are witnesses to this. Refrain

Who is this dead One whom you guard? Why do you seal the stone for fear that someone might steal him? Behold now the tomb and the seals: How is he risen if he is not the Lord God? Rather believe the departed just ones who have appeared to many after their resurrection.

With the Father we also glorify the Son and the Holy Spirit, crying out with an unceasing voice: O Holy Trinity, have mercy on us! In your love, save us, O Divinity, glorified in three persons forever.

How have you held as an infant in your womb, O immaculate Virgin, the God whom the angels adore? According to the wisdom of his good will, he dwelt there to save all the children of Adam and to repeal the bitter condemnation that was reaped from the forbidden tree.

Glo - ry to your ho - ly Res - ur - rec - tion, O Lord.

On the Cross the Good Thief recognized you as God, and you made him an inhabitant of the heavenly Paradise when he said: Remember me, O almighty Savior. Refrain

For us you were insulted by the faithless and lawless impious ones, even though you were the One who wrote the tablets of the Law for your servant Moses on Sinai. Refrain

For us, O Savior, you drank vinegar and gall, even though you were the One who gave your body and precious blood as the nourishment for eternal life. Refrain

A sword pierced your life-giving side, o Christ, bringing forth blood and water as a source of eternal life for the world. Refrain

You were numbered among the dead, even though you gave life to us who were placed in the tomb. You emptied the tombs when you conquered Hades and raised up Adam. Refrain

You are risen, O Jesus, and the Enemy is in chains; both Hades and the tombs are emptied, and the dead rise up to adore you. Refrain

Who would steal a dead body, especially a naked one? This is no myth; Christ is risen breaking down the gates and bolts of Hades. Refrain

Glory to you, o Christ, Savior and Source of life; you have made light dawn upon the darkness of error, illuminating the whole world by your Resurrection. Refrain

Let us praise Joseph, the noble counsellor; together with the myrrh-bearers and the disciples of the Lord, he attests to the Resurrection of Christ. Refrain

O faithful, let us praise Joseph of Arimathea, together with Nicodemus and the ointment-bearing women; for they said: The Lord is truly risen!

O eternal Father and uncreated Son, sharing the same throne with the Spirit, you are the only true God, in the triple unity of nature and the trinity of persons.

Jesse rejoices and David exalts! Behold, here is the Virgin who, as a branch planted by God, has given birth to Christ the eternal Flower.

Hymn of Light (page 37)

Glory...now and ever...

O myrrh-bearing women, listen to the news that brings joy: I have put Hades, that cruel tyrant, to flight; I have made the world rise from the depths of the tomb; I hasten to my friends, the disciples, and quickly bring this news to them. For it is my will that the work of my hands shines with joy because in days of old it gave birth to sorrow.

I will praise you, Lord, with all my heart; I will re-count your won - ders.

Let those who deny the truth give an answer: How were the sol-diers

Let them ei-ther pro-duce the bur-ied corpse or else a-dore the Ris-en Lord and say a-long with us: Glo-ry to the a-bun-dance of your mer-cy.

After the Dismissal (pp. 49-50), the celebrant says three times: "Christ is risen!" and the faithful respond each time: "Indeed he is risen!" The celebrant then sings once: "Christ is risen from the dead! By death..., " and the faithful sing:

Christ is ris-en from the dead! By death he tram-pled death; and to those in the tombs he grant-ed life. And to us he grant-ed life e - ter - nal.

Let us bow be-fore his resur-rec-tion on the third day!
